Detroit attorneys deny land talks

Don Howard

> Cox doesn't return calls.
> All we get are insults.
> It's time we reassess our legal options.

Attorneys for the City of Detroit have expressed their frustration with attempts to reach some agreement with Plymouth Township officials in an ongoing land dispute.

"I think it's time to re-evaluate our legal options," stated Deputy Corporate Counsel for Detroit Chuck Raimi last week, following a decision by the Michigan Supreme Court favoring Detroit and denying the appeal of the township in the controversy.

Raimi adamantly denied that any negotiation was ongoing between Detroit and Plymouth Township regarding a settlement of taxes paid on land purchased by the township.

The City of Detroit and the township have been battling for several years about the erroneous tax sale of a 190-acre piece of property that was once the site of the Detroit House of Corrections Prison Farm. Detroit has owned the land for nearly 100 years but when a portion of the property was sold to a local developer, the property split was not correctly recorded and tax bills for the entire 323 acres sent to the developer who never paid any taxes on any portion of the land.

Plymouth Township then notified Wayne County of the unpaid taxes on the parcel of land and, based on that information, county officials sent delinquent tax notices and then ultimately foreclosed on the land. Following the foreclosure, the county treasurer offered the entire 323-acre parcel of and at a tax sale and it was purchased by Plymouth Township, the entity which initially reported the delinquency.

The township paid $606,000 in 2011 for the land and has paid property taxes of about $102,000 on the property since that time.

The City of Detroit subsequently sued the township for return of the 190-acre section erroneously recorded, noting that tax notices were sent to an incorrect address and that municipally-owned land is exempt from foreclosure proceedings under state law.

In 2015, Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Robert Columbo ruled in favor of the city and ordered the township to immediately return the property to the rightful owner. The

Maybury sets annual Farm Fest next week

Cuddly baby farm animals, hayrides, face painting, demonstrations, crafts and games are expected to bring crowds to Maybury Farm May 21.

Farm Fest, the largest annual event at Maybury Farm, will take place this year from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday, May 21. The event will feature a wide variety of activities including rope making, hayrides, baby animals, face painting, children's games and activities, story time and others.

Northville Community Foundation Executive Director Jessica Striegle noted that the popularity of Farm Fest has been growing annually due to the unique activities offered.

"Sheep and llama shearing, wool spinning and cheese making are just a few of the unique events," she said. "And getting up close and touching the baby animals is always fun for both the children and even the adults. They are probably our biggest attraction."

The foundation operates the fully-working farm which is open for visitors on a regular basis.

This year, Striegle said, the farm has partnered with the Plymouth Home Depot, the Country Garden Club of Northville, Taste: A Cook's Place, and the Northville Art House to offer additional activities for children, including a building workshop, an art project and planting container gardens. There will also be a scavenger hunt for the whole family during Farm Fest, Striegle said.

The schedule of events includes:

10 a.m. Farm Fest begins with children's activities; spinning demonstrations and hayrides all day; Home Depot Building Workshop available to the first 100 participants, and sheep shearing demonstrations.

11 a.m. until 3 p.m. Children's gardening activity with the Country Garden Club of Northville

Noon: Northville High School Drumline Performance

Noon-4 p.m. Art project with the Northville Art House

1 p.m. Cheese making with Mary Spencer of Taste: A Cook's Place

The cost of entry to Farm Fest is $4 per person and children under the age of 2 are admitted at no cost. Admission includes the demonstrations, most children's activities, visiting with the animals and face painting. Concessions and hayrides are also available for purchase.

Sponsors this year include Community Financial Credit Union, Northville Meijer, Blackwell Ford and Aisin Group.

Wayne man charged in Eloise fire

One teen has pleaded guilty and another faces charges in the fire which gutted the former bakery on the Eloise property March 30.

Trevor Bauer, 18, of Wayne entered a guilty plea to third-degree arson charges and admitted he set the fire that destroyed the building in a hearing before Wayne County Circuit Court Judge James Chylinski last week. He also pleaded guilty to possession of burglary tools.

A 16-year-old boy from Westland is also charged in the fire, but his name is not being released due to his status as a juvenile.

Chylinski continued the $10,000 or 10 percent bond for Bauer during the hearing. His sentencing is set for May 25.

Wayne-Westland firefighters were assisted by Garden City and Inkster firefighters in battling the blaze. The building, which formerly served as the bakery at the city-like complex, was completely destroyed. Firefighters had difficulty accessing the property due to a fence and found that the floor of the second story of the building was ready to collapse when they arrived at the scene at about 2 p.m. March 30, according to official reports of the incident. Firefighters suspected that the fire was set on the second floor and flames were already coming through the roof when they arrived.

The 160-acre property is owned by Wayne County and the complex has been offered for sale at $1.5 million excluding the buildings that house the Wayne County Family Center, the Wayne County Sheriff Road Patrol Division and a Wayne County Clerk satellite office.

Westland City Hall wins project award

The new Westland City Hall has been selected as one of the National Public Works Projects of the Year by the American Public Works Association (APWA). The project also received the local and state award from the association.

The Public Works Project of the Year Award was established to promote excellence in the management and administration of public works projects by recognizing the alliance between the managing agency, the consultant/architect/ engineer, and the contractor who, working together, complete public works projects, according to a prepared statement from the city.

This year the Westland City Hall won the APWA, Downriver Branch, Structural Project of the Year Award for projects between $5- $25 million dollars. The city hall nomination drew on the innovation of taking a blighted big box store in the middle of the "Shop and Dine" district and renovating it to create a modern, energy-efficient city hall. This retrofit saved a significant portion of the 64,000 square-foot commercial building from being land-filled and solved a decades-old problem of replacing the former undersized city hall.

This green-mindedness along with features incorporated into the design by OHM Advisors which included installing window walls along the length of the southern wall, along with skylights and self-extinguishing lights gained high marks from the judging panel. The new, larger city hall replaced the former cramped 13,500 square foot building which served the City of Westland since 1966. This allowed many of the city departments to be joined at one location, providing the convenience to residents of a "one-stop shop". Officials evaluated several alternative locations, but none were as cost-effective or allowed for the retrofitting of a defunct building into a green infrastructure functional facility.

The city hall nomination will now proceed to compete at the APWA state level and possibly the APWA national level.

"Westland's City Hall project has received acclaim and awards for multiple organizations," commented Mayor William Wild. "The AWPA has awarded the Westland City Hall project with this award at the local, state and now national level. It has strengthened the city's profile as one of Southeast Michigan's leading innovative and environmentally conscientious cities."

After the injury, the victim was able to transport himself to the hospital where he was listed in stable condition, according to police reports. He was unable to provide detectives with information regarding a suspect in the shooting during his initial interview, officers said.

Plymouth businesses protest 'lack of forethought'

More than 20 businesses signed a letter presented to members of the Plymouth Liquor License Review Committee last week, citing a "lack of forethought" in the approval of new businesses in the city.

The letter came as the commission is in the process of allowing one more new liquor license in the downtown area of the city, going from 14 to 15, and two businesses, one new and one established, both petition for permission to serve alcohol by the class.

The new "revised alcohol management ordinance" includes the decision to increase the number of licenses in downtown Plymouth.

Bob Ostendorf of Stella's Black Dog Tavern told the commissioners that the real issue with the current business owners is parking. He said that the owners feel that they are all losing business because of the lack of parking in the downtown area.

Owners of the nearly completed new Westborn Market in the former post office on Penniman Street have requested a permit to sell alcohol at the 90-seat restaurant included at the new business. Westborn has included more on-site parking in the plans than is required by the city.

Committee member Colleen Pobur told the business owners that parking was a consideration in all the approvals the new Westborn Market had been granted. The committee members also explained that several attempts have been made to increase parking, include the purchase of the property at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail at Deer Street which now offers 40 free public parking spots.

Mayor Dan Dwyer, also a member of the committee, said that the parking situation is the most challenging issue with which he has dealt. Dwyer agreed with the business owners who attended the meeting that their input into the parking problem before any changes were made to the current limit would be welcome.

While the members of the committee approved the draft of the new alcohol management ordinance, the liquor license request from the new business remained tabled.

Greek Islands Coney Island, a business that has been established in downtown for several years, has repeatedly applied to the committee for such a license but has been turned down due to the 14 license limit.

township appealed that ruling and was again unsuccessful with the Michigan Court of Appeals, a three-judge panel, who upheld Columbo's ruling and the Detroit position in January.

The township then hired former Michigan State Attorney General Mike Cox who persuaded the Township Board of Trustees to take the issue to the Michigan Supreme Court in an effort to "continue negotiations" with attorneys for Detroit and Wayne County regarding the taxes paid by the township. That measure was authorized by a 3-2 vote of the board members in March. Last week, the Michigan Supreme Court denied that brief to appeal, ruling in favor of Detroit.

Attorneys for Wayne County adamantly deny the reported claims of township officials that negotiations for a settlement on the taxes the township paid on the land are under way.

Chief Assistant Wayne County Corporation Counsel Jacob Ghannam said the county relied completely on information received from Plymouth Township regarding the foreclosure proceedings and has no liability or legal exposure in the situation.

Ghannam said Friday that there are no negotiations taking place regarding the property. He said that while the county was previously facilitating negotiations between attorneys for the city and the township, he knows of no such continuing negotiations at this time.

"No--we're pretty much done," Ghannam said this week.

"We gave a recommendation as to what both sides needed to do, that is the city and the township. It's Detroit's property and a tax adjustment needs to be made between those two parties," he said.

"But, I don't know of any negotiations; you might want to talk to Mike Cox," Ghannam remarked.

Raimi, too, was adamant that there are no ongoing negotiations with township officials.

"We have tried to negotiate with the township over and over since 2012," Raimi said. "The township officials don't return calls. Cox doesn't return calls. All we get are insults. It's time we reassess our legal options," he said.

During a special board meeting in March, Township Supervisor Shannon Price told board members that the township would be walking away from more than $220,000 if no further appeal of the court decisions were authorized.

"Wouldn't you bet $75,000 to get $220,000?" Price said after the special board meeting in March, referring to the estimate provided by the Cox law firm to create the brief to request a motion to appeal to the Supreme Court. Those fees are now estimated at $87,000.

With the original $606,000 the township paid for the land, the estimated back taxes and legal fees to date, the township has invested about $800,000 for 133 acres of land, 77 of which are unbuildable.

Area clinic doctor charged

A doctor at Canton Urgent Care on Ford Road is facing nearly 30 years in prison if convicted of multiple felonies related to Medicare and insurance fraud.

Dr. Bassel Altantawi, 45, the only doctor at the facility, is accused of repeatedly billing Medicaid and Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan for services he allegedly did not provide to patients, according to a statement from Michigan Attorney General Bill Schuette.

Canton Township Police officials contacted the Health Care Fraud Division of Schuette's office following a tip officers received regarding Altantawi, a resident of Farmington Hills.

"We will continue to identify and prosecute unscrupulous health care providers who waste limited health-care dollars by fraudulently seeking payment for services they never provided," Schuette said in the statement. "Michigan residents should feel confident that when they see a physician, they receive honest, quality care and accurate billing based on the services provided to them by a physician."

Altantawi was charged in East Lansing District Court last week by attorneys from Schuette's office and arraigned before Judge Richard Ball on charges including: nine counts of Medicaid Fraud, punishable by up to 4 years in prison, and/or a fine of $50,000; 12 counts of Health Care Fraud, punishable by up to 4 years in prison, and/or a fine of $50,000, and one count of Continuing Criminal Enterprise, punishable by up to 20 years in prison, and/or a fine of not more than $100,000.

Ball released the doctor on a $25,000 personal recognizance bond. Schuette urged patients seen by Altantawi who suspect they may have been billed for services that were not provided call the fraud division at hotline at 1-800-24-ABUSE.

Northville

New police, fire appointments in township

The appointment of Todd Mutchler as the Deputy Director of Police Services and Brent Siegel as Interim Deputy Director of Fire Services in Northville Township became official this week.

The official new titles were announced in a prepared statement from Township Manager Chip Snider.

Mutchler served 28 years with the Canton Township Public Safety Department and retired as Director of Public Safety. He was responsible for the operation, administration, planning, and development of the nominally consolidated police and fire department, Snider said.

Siegel began his career with the Northville Township Fire Department in 2005. He is responsible for the development and coordination of emergency medical programs within the department. "Brent's proven ability to build strong working relationships with township departments has been invaluable," Snider continued.

He added that the commitment to excellence of Northville Township "is founded within the organization's culture."

"The fire department is anxious to gravitate toward an organization that fosters personal growth," he said. "Brent Siegel the Interim Deputy Director of Fire Services will take his new role of a leader within the organization as more of a coach, teacher, with a strong emphasis on networking."

Snider was as enthusiastic about the hiring of Mutchler.

"Todd Mutchler brings extensive experience to the police department as Deputy Director of Police Services. Todd's philosophy and style will complement Director (John) Werth's ability to continue quality police protection. Todd's core values were very evident when viewing the relationship he had with Canton Township," Snider added.

"Many organizations simply staff their problems and starve their opportunities. Our selections are crucial for team success. This organizational restructuring is intended to, and I believe will, result in increased administrative efficiency and operational effectiveness," he concluded in his announcement to the board of trustees in the township.

"You, as elected officials, underscore the importance of this Township by developing and maintaining a reputation for integrity while advocating resident satisfaction," he concluded.

Northville Township budget presentation awarded national honor

Northville Township has received a Distinguished Budget Presentation Award from the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada.

According to a prepared statement, the award represents a significant achievement by the entity. It reflects the commitment of the governing body and staff to meeting the highest principles of governmental budgeting. In order to receive the budget award, Northville Township financial officers had to satisfy nationally recognized guidelines for effective budget presentation. These guidelines are designed to assess how well an entity's budget serves as: a policy document; a financial plan; an operations guide and a communications device.

Budget documents must be rated "proficient" in all four categories, and the 14 mandatory criteria within those categories, to receive the award, the statement noted.

Township Treasurer Marjorie F. Banner was awarded a Certificate of Recognition for Budget Presentation along with the honor to the township.

7. Public Comment:
A resident, representing the Romulus Junction Sub Neighborhood Watch Committee, spoke to council regarding his concerns about the run down and condemned houses in his neighborhood. He submitted pictures of some of the houses he was concerned about and asked what is the time line for a house to be condemned before it is demolished? He further stated that the houses devalue other homes in the neighborhood and asked about how they can get the matter resolved. He voiced his concerns regarding the lack of privacy at the Police Department when he went to talk to someone about his concerns. The resident gave the clerk some information concerning public safety and asked if the information could be made available on the city's website. A second resident, who owns a business in Romulus, commented on receiving a certified letter from the city regarding weed cutting. He stated that his grass is always cut and stated that the city was wasting a lot of money on these mailings and suggested an alternative way to respond to residents who do not cut their grass that would save the city money. Councilwoman Makowski stated that he was her neighbor and his yard never looks bad and Councilwoman Abdo commented that she is also a neighbor and the letter must have been sent to him in error.
8. Unfinished Business:
Councilman Wadsworth reminded the public of the Animal Shelter Bowl-A-Thon Fundraiser to be held on Friday, May 13, 2016. There are still a few spots left and all the proceeds go to the Animal Shelter. If anyone would like to donate to the event, they can contact him. Mayor Burcroff addressed the concerns of the resident regarding the ordinance issue, blight, and demolition of houses. The Mayor stated that he's working with the building and ordinance departments to resolve these issues. He invited the resident to visit his office so they can further address his concerns. Mayor Burcroff addressed the concerns of the second resident who received a certified letter regarding weed cutting. The Mayor explained why the decision to send certified letters was initiated and stated that he would look into why the residents address was on the list and would report back to council. Councilman Wadsworth also commented on the reason for sending a certified letter. Clerk Bragg stated that the Romulus Code of Ordinance is available on the city's website and is consistent with other municipalities. In response to the 2nd resident's concern, Clerk Bragg stated council adopted a resolution last month amending the fee schedule for the Ordinance Department to add a new fee for certified mailings.
Councilwoman Abdo commented on the 1st resident's concerns regarding not being able to discuss their concerns in private at the police department. Mayor Pro Tem, John Barden recognized Robert McCraight, Director of the Building Department. Mr. McCraight applauded the residents for getting together to address the issue regarding the condition of the properties. He commented that his department has been working with several residents in the area to take care of the problem and will continue to work towards resolving the issue.

BELLEVILLE - ROMULUS

Earth Day

Volunteers join city clean-up effort

The 18th Annual Citywide Clean Sweep and Eco-Fair celebrated Earth Day in Romulus and helped welcome warmer weather, officials said.

The 18th Annual Citywide Clean Sweep,created by Mayor LeRoy D. Burcroff in 1999 while he was serving on the city council as a way to encourage residents to take pride and ownership in their city, drew a crowd this year, The event, co-sponsored by Waste Management, was attended by more than 50 volunteers, including city officials, civic groups, students and families, who came out to clean up around the community and enjoy fellowship.

Officials said special thanks were due to Romulus Boy Scout Troop 872, St. John's Lodge No. 44 and St. Luke Chapter No. 2 Order of the Eyes, Romulus Beautification Committee, Romulus High School teacher and football coach Thom Patterson and his students, Barth Elementary teacher Tom Gibb-Randall and his students, and the many other individuals and volunteers who attended and worked.

The Eco-Fair took place at the Romulus Athletic Center where 10 local organizations were available to distribute environmental information and speak with residents. Participants included Waste Management, Huron-Clinton Metroparks, MSU Extension Office, DTE Residential Energy Efficiency Program, Alliance of Downriver Watersheds, Alliance of Rouge Communities, Romulus Public Library, Romulus Garden Club, Old City Acres Farm, and Wayne County Health Department, officials said in a prepared statement.

For more information about the events or suggestions for future Earth Day programming, call Burcroff's office, (734) 942-7571.

School district names 2nd interim leader

Diane Kullis, the current federal and state grant coordinator for the Van Buren Public Schools, has been named as the interim superintendent of schools.

Members of the board of education unanimously approved the promotion during a special meeting April 28 and Kullis' will assume her new title on May 12, the day following the official resignation of Interim Superintendent/Human Resources Director Shonta Langford-Green.

Board members said they hope to have a permanent new superintendent in place by July 1.

Kullis, who was formerly the director of instruction, has been with the district since 2011. She had planned to retire last year but stayed to train a replacement for her job at the request of former Superintendent of Schools Michael Van Tassel.

Kullis has earned degrees including a bachelor of arts in special education, deaf/hard of hearing; master of arts in instructional development and technology; master of arts in educational leadership, with elementary principal and central office certification; director of special education certification; specialist of arts - educational leadership; and a State of Michigan school administrator certificate. Like Green, she will be paid an additional $100 per day in the interim capacity.

Voting precinct 5 will change for election

When voters in Romulus choose a new president this fall, many of them will do it at a new polling location.

Voters in Precinct 5 will vote in the Romulus Senior Center, not at Romulus City Hall. Members of the city council voted to move the precinct there during their regular meeting last week.

Romulus Clerk Ellen Craig-Bragg said the move was necessary because the senior center has more available handicapped parking and more space.

"It's larger, there's more space and it'll be more comfortable for people, getting in and out," she said.

She said she had wanted to move the polling location to a new site for several years and the need became even more evident during the recent presidential primary. The 35 percent voter turnout in that election made city hall a very busy place.

"It was pretty congested," she said.

Also, the city hall parking lot does not have enough handicapped parking space to be ADA compliant as a polling place, she said. With only one precinct worker, it's difficult to set the room up for voting between the Monday night city council meetings and Tuesday morning poll opening.

"It's a very busy precinct. This is going to make it more convenient for voters and it'll make it more convenient for the staff at city hall who are working," she said. "There are a lot of interruptions that go on when you have a large number of people going in and out."

Voters will be notified through new voter registration cards, a notice from city hall explaining the change. It will also be on the city website and in the city newsletter.

The funding for that has already been budgeted.

Council President John Barden said the move would also help reduce some congestion in the parking lot, which also serves the Romulus Public Library.

"It's a good move, I think," he said.

Mayor Leroy Burcroff agreed.

"We can control the activities and functions at the senior center, we can't (at city hall). Essential services have to go on," he said. "It'll be much less disruptive. We can scale back on what we schedule there so we just focus on having a smooth election. I think ultimately it'll be a better experience for the voters and the workers."
